Regional Studies, Regional Science
A new open access journal from the RSA

Alasdair Rae, University of Sheffield
Alex Singleton, University of Liverpool
Overview

- Researched and planned over past 2 years
- ‘Gold’ open access journal
- Low APCs – and no fees for Early Career scholars
- Fully supported by Taylor and Francis
- Modified approach to peer review
- Very flexible in terms of article format
- Publication criteria – quality, methodological rigour, clarity of expression
- Impact/significance decisions – post-publication process
This is the start of a journey

- We know the OA landscape is constantly shifting
- There are so many other OA journals – DOAJ, etc.
- Big debates about peer review being ‘broken’
- The journal will adapt and change over time
- Significant global, multi-disciplinary buy-in already

- Editorial will be online soon
- First batch of papers includes contribution from Andrew Beer and Terry Clower, with commentaries from Sarah Ayres, John Gibney and Markku Sotarautu
NEW FOR 2014
Announcing an Open Access journal from the RSA

Regional Studies
Regional Science

Now receiving submissions

www.tandfonline.com/rsrs

Visit the RSA website to learn more:
www.regionalstudies.org

Routledge OPEN
An Open Access journal