FRIDAY 29TH JUNE 2018

Walking Tour

Date/Time: Friday 29/06/2018 1600 - 1700, Peking University East Gate

Peking campus is like an imperial garden with many traditional houses, lakes, pagodas and museums. The pagoda beside Weiming Lake near the East Gate in the center of campus is representative of the ancient Chinese architecture in the university.

There are several gates that lead into campus - East, West and South gates. The most popular one is the "West Gate" and many tourists take pictures here. Alumnae donated the gate in 1926. During the Cultural Revolution, the stone lions that guard the gate were almost destroyed by Red Guards. It is said that other students from the university protected the lions and would not let them be demolished.

Weiming Lake is one of the most popular and scenic spots on campus. The word "wei ming" in Chinese means "without being named." Qian Mu, a famous scholar in China, named this "No Name" Lake because many people have tried to name it and capture its essence but no one could agree.

The lake was once a part of a royal garden in the Qing dynasty and is still regarded by visitors as sacred. The lake is right in the middle of campus and many students can be seen studying around it. During the winter when the lake freezes over, students walk on the lake or skate on it.

There are also museums on campus to check out. There's the Museum for University History as well as the Arthur M. Sackler Museum of Art and Archaeology, which contains more than 10,000 objects spanning a period of 280,000 years. Tickets are 20 yuan.

As you walk through campus there are buildings, classrooms and dorms. Most have a Chinese-style architecture but there are a few modern buildings as well. Along with shops, places to eat, and vendor's carts lining popular spots with cold drinks, snacks and PKU memorabilia to buy, enjoying the scenery and history Peking University is a meaningful adventure.

Tip: when visiting and snapping pictures, be sure to quietly observe and not speak loudly near classrooms. After all, at its core Peking University is a campus.

| Miao, Julie Tian - University of Glasgow, United Kingdom | This special session will celebrate the launch and the first issue of RSA's first e-journal – Regions E-Zine, through an interactive introduction and Q/A activities. Its editors as well as the CEO of RSA will outline the aim, structure, and exciting features of this new journal, and invite audience to contribute to and share your thoughts on expanding its coverage and leveraging its impact. To broaden this discussion and to bring value to participants, especially to students and early career scholars, this session will also feature a 'tip-giving' from journal editors and experienced reviewers on publishing good quality journal papers. More socialising opportunities will be offered in a relaxing and interactive atmosphere afterwards when the audience can further engage with editors and peers. |
