

Book proposal

Knowledge, Innovation and Regional Development in South America (KIRDSA)

RSA Routledge Regions and Cities Book Series

The KIRDSA 2024 Conference will take place in Montevideo, Uruguay, on 8-9 February 2024. This will be the first meeting of KIRDSA, a Regional Studies Association research network focused on the analysis of knowledge flows for territorial development in South America. The conference invites researchers based in South America and other regions of the world to present research works that discuss some of the central issues on the regional development agenda in South America.

Based on a selection of papers presented here, we will submit a book proposal for the RSA Routledge Regions and Cities Book Series. Given its connection with the Conference, the book could include chapters addressing a variety of topics related to the creation and dissemination of knowledge in the South American context and the development processes with a territorial approach (see below the call for papers for a list of sample topics). However, depending on the papers finally selected and the authors interested in participating, the final book proposal that we will present to the publisher may have a more specific focus.

Authors interested in participating in this book proposal are invited to submit their papers for the KIRDSA Conference by September 20. Information on the book's editorial team, the publisher, our research network and the conference, can be found below.
